Throughout 2021, Clark County Credit Union continued its commitment to give back to community. With members and employees of the credit union contributing time and funds to community projects, CCCU is proud of the support given to many local individuals and families in need.

"CCCU supports the credit union objective of 'People Helping People' through scholarships, volunteering, and other acts of kindness in our community," said

Matt Kershaw, CCCU President, and CEO. “Regardless of any difficulties that have come up this year, members and employees still came together to lift each other up.”
